

KITA MITCHELL

About Kita Mitchell

Raised in the wild by guinea pigs, Kita always dreamt of becoming an author. She wrote and illustrated her first work, Cindersmella, at the age of eight. It was swiftly and cruelly rejected by publishers. The sequels, Repunsmell and Mouldilocks were equally badly received. Disheartened, she became an animator - but the feeling she should write for children never went away.

Many years later, Kita graduated from the Bath Spa MA in Writing for Young People. Grandma Dangerous and the Dog of Destiny was published in 2019, to huge critical acclaim.

“THRILLS! BISCUITS! THIS BOOK HAS IT ALL”
Andy Riley, author of King Flashypants

“A brilliant book! Buy ten!”
Kita Mitchell, Oxfordshire.

Kita lives in Oxfordshire with four daughters and a hamster.

Fun facts

In 2019, Grandma Dangerous and the Dog of Destiny was voted WINNER of the Cumbrian Primary School Book Award. Kita was so excited about beating Cressida Cowell, she forgot to pick her children up from school.

Kita is fond of baked goods. Once, after a scone eating contest with her brother, she had stomach ache for three days.

Kita's favourite book is Grandma Dangerous and the Dog of Destiny. She can't remember who wrote it, but it really is excellent.
